Tele- Befriender

for

- ✓ Elderly
- ✓ Children & Youth
- ✓ Family
- ✓ The Differently-abled

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

During this difficult time, many individuals face a range of mental health issues. Seniors are more likely to feel isolated in their homes, often unable to clearly follow the changes in regulations and how the pandemic is evolving. Caregivers and parents with young children are more prone to face caregiving stress and isolation, having to now care for their family members 24/7. Social Services Agencies (SSAs) have ongoing befriending programmes that they need to take online. Or they create new programmes to keep in touch with their service-users.

Service-users

Persons at high-risk of facing isolation and caregiving stress.

ABOUT THE OPPORTUNITY

Volunteers will call service-users via telephone to check-in with them, often with a standard set of queries. Befriending helps service-users and volunteers form new relationships within the community, as well as provide them an avenue to raise any concerns and red flags.

Suitable For

Open to All: Individuals / Family-friendly / Groups / Seniors / Youths

Requirements

- At least 25 years old
- Positive, patient and willing to lend a listening ear
- Ability to converse in Mandarin, Malay or dialects is a plus

Schedule

Programmes vary from weekly to monthly calls, depending on the SSA's programme objectives or service-user's needs.

Support Given

- Training on basic befriending skills
- Orientation by the SSA, including necessary reports, if any
- Staff support by the SSA

Areas to Note

1. Confidentiality – Do safeguard the privacy and confidentiality of the service-users who you meet through the programme. Do not share any details/photos to any third parties, social media or public without any consent.
2. Boundaries – While we encourage open communication between the service-user and volunteer, please be mindful not to impose your views on the service-user. Do not play the role of counsellor or nurse. Any alarming issues should be shared with the SSA's staff immediately.
3. Practise Self-care – If you have been put in an uncomfortable position or have any concerns, do speak to your coordinator so that you can be better supported.
